

Spoon Fed

If you're anything like Belinda Jennings, you'll know that finding an appropriate utensil to dish up dinner for your four-legged beloveds can turn mealtimes into a messy business. Not anymore! This mother of two has designed a product specifically for this purpose. The spoons from 'muttley & catlery' have long handles (to eliminate pet food on your hands) and a flat edge to access the bottom and sides of the can. And you'll never get Puss or Fido's spoon mucked up with your 'human' spoons, as they come complete with paw prints. There's also a stainless steel cup for dry food. We were so excited about these products we're giving you the chance to take some home. Turn to our subscription offer on page 44 for more details. And the good news is every sale of these products helps the Lort Smith Animal Hospital in North Melbourne. Of course, because we also donate to the hospital, we adore this!

'... you'll never get Puss or Fido's spoon mucked up with your 'human' spoons, as they come complete with paw prints'

