

Loving spoonfuls

I love my dog and my cat, but what I don't love is feeding them off the same spoons as I use. I don't like to know I'm eating off a spoon that Chum has graced! But I've just found a new product for them that I can enjoy using as well – Muttlery and Catlery. As the name suggests this new pet range includes pet spoons and measuring cups that help to make feeding times happy times for all involved. The spoons, which come in two sizes, have a long handle to avoid food getting all over your hands as you try to get the last scraps out (it happens to all of us), a flat edge to help remove food, and a hole for hanging. They are made from stainless steel and feature cute little paw prints. You can also buy a silver cup that measures out dog or cat food perfectly to prevent overstuffed felines or pooches.
